

Court Interpreter Training & Certification Opportunities

COURT INTERPRETERS
REMOVE LANGUAGE BARRIERS
AND PROVIDE ACCESS TO THE COURTS

The Idaho Supreme Court announces the 2014 training and testing schedule for all those interested in becoming court interpreters.

Courts around the state require access to interpreters who are trained and certified.

In 2012, Idaho courts contracted the services of interpreters in more than 40 different languages.

If you are bilingual and fluent in another language, and would like to start working in this rewarding career, the Idaho Supreme Court offers training and resources needed to become a Certified Court Interpreter.

Interpreters provide an essential service by assisting the courts in upholding an individual's constitutional rights. If you have ever thought of utilizing your language skills to the fullest, take advantage of these opportunities.
